General Information

Utah law allows taxpayers to subtract interest or dividends earned on gualifying U.S. government obligations from their federal adjusted gross income. This publication identifies the types of obligations that are tax-free on the Utah individual income tax return.

See Utah Code §59-10-114(2)(a).

Questions & Answers

- Q: Why is the interest from U.S. government obligations tax-free in Utah?
- A: Federal obligations are exempt from tax by states or local governments when they are issued to secure credit to carry on the necessary functions of government.
- Q: What kind of U.S. government income is tax-free in Utah?
- A: Income from the following sources is exempt from Utah income tax:
  - Interest income on bonds or other direct obligations of the U.S. government or its possessions (treasury bonds, treasury notes, treasury bills, certificates and savings bonds).
  - Interest or dividends on bonds or securities issued by entities exempt from state income taxes under federal law. See the detailed list following these questions.
- Q: How can I tell which obligations are tax-free?
- A: U.S. obligations exempt from state taxation must:
  - 1. be a written document.
  - 2. bear interest,
  - 3. contain a promise by the U.S. government to pay a specific sum on a specific date, and
  - 4. have congressional authorization which pledges the full faith and credit of the U.S. government.

(See U.S. Supreme Court decision under Smith v. Davis, 323 U.S. 111(1944).)

- Q: May I subtract all of my income and dividends from tax-free U.S. government obligations?
- A: No. Exempt U.S. government interest claimed as a subtraction from Utah income must be reduced by the following expenses if these expenses were claimed as deductions from your federal taxable income:
  - · Interest on money you borrowed to buy or carry the bonds or securities.
  - · Ordinary and necessary expenses to produce exempt income.
- Q: How do I subtract this income?
- A: Claim this subtraction on Utah from TC-40A, Part 2. Use code 71.
- Q: What types of income received from the U.S. government is taxable under Utah state law?
- A: Income from the following sources is subject to Utah income tax:
  - · Interest or dividends from the Federal National Mortgage Association (FNMA) and Government National Mortgage Association (GNMA).
  - Refunds or interest on refunds from the Internal Revenue Service or any other federal agency or department. See below for details.

Verification Required

All subtractions from Utah income for U.S. government interest will be subject to audit. You must keep the following documents to support claimed amounts:

- Any information about U.S. government obligations and related interest.
- If the source of the U.S. government obligation interest is a trust, partnership or S corporation, you must provide a statement from the entity identifying the sources and amounts of interest earned. A federal or Utah Schedule K-1 is not sufficient, unless it cites the source and amount of interest.

• If the source of the U.S. government obligation interest is from a mutual fund, you must provide a statement from the mutual fund identifying the percent of mutual fund income earned from U.S. government obligations, the source of the U.S. government obligations, and the percent of U.S. government obligation interest earned from each source. A form 1099 is not sufficient if it does not provide the detail listed above.
